ArtScience Museum turns 10!
Local icon which aspires to be “A Different Kind of Museum” celebrates its anniversary

SINGAPORE (17 February 2021) – ArtScience Museum marks a key milestone as it celebrates its 10th birthday today. Since its opening, ArtScience Museum, with its eye-catching structure reminiscent of a lotus flower, has become an icon in Singapore and around the world. It has staged over 50 thought-provoking exhibitions, and over 1,000 programmes, over the last decade.

After opening on 17 February 2011, ArtScience Museum has become a vibrant expression of Singapore’s commitment to art and science. Over the last decade the Museum has presented ground-breaking shows that explore all aspects of science, and has brought masterpieces by some of the world’s major artists, such as Leonardo da Vinci, Salvador Dalí, Andy Warhol, and M.C. Escher, to Singapore.

A dynamic range of education activities and public programmes have also run alongside the exhibitions, pushing the boundaries of art and science, and deepening ArtScience Museum’s engagement with audiences in Singapore.

“A Different Kind of Museum”

Since its conception, ArtScience Museum has aspired to be a “Different Kind of Museum”, one that encourages a confluence of interaction, play, learning and appreciation. To mark its 10th birthday, a new campaign is being launched today to showcase ArtScience Museum as an exciting and inspiring destination for three audiences – families, couples and friends.

The campaign, titled “A Different Kind of Museum”, positions ArtScience Museum as a museum like no other – allowing people to explore, co-create, play and interact in an immersive and fun filled environment. Running throughout 2021, the campaign will feature ArtScience Museum’s anniversary programme, focusing on a year of brand-new exhibitions and unique events. The first two “A Different Kind of Museum” videos can be viewed here (Romance) and here (Binge-ing).

“It is a historic day for us at ArtScience Museum as we mark a decade of operating at the intersection of art, science, culture and technology. In 2021, we plan a season of exhibitions and programmes to celebrate our 10th anniversary and position ArtScience Museum as a crucible for experimentation, innovation and interactivity. We launch that today with ‘A Different Kind of Museum’, a campaign that will run throughout the year. Despite the continuing challenges of the pandemic, I am delighted that we have a truly exciting line-up planned for this year, that includes world-premiere exhibitions, intriguing public programmes, cutting-edge immersive experiences, and bold new educational initiatives,” said Honor Harger, Executive Director of ArtScience Museum, Marina Bay Sands.

“Today, we also want to thank the millions of visitors who have supported us throughout our first 10 years, and so we made sure they were at the heart of our celebrations today.”

Lucky Visitors Become Part of the Celebration

Celebrations on-site at ArtScience Museum focused on four lucky visitors who visited the Museum’s four current exhibitions. They were presented with gifts, including complimentary one-year access to the Museum's membership club, ArtScience Friends.

The visitors to Future World: Where Art Meets Science, Planet or Plastic?, Margins: drawing pictures of home, and STAR WARS Identities were surprised and delighted as they exited the exhibitions at 2.17pm, and were given their gifts by Ms Harger and senior staff from the Museum.

Serendipitously, three of the four visitors who were surprised were having special days of their own. Two visitors were celebrating a birthday and one couple were marking their wedding anniversary.
